MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE SOCIAL WORK AMENDMENT BILL, 1998

Background and main objects

During 1995 a transitional council, namely the South African Interim Council for Social Work (the "interim council"), was established in terms of the Social Work Amendment Act, 1995 (Act No. 52 of 1995). One of the objects of the interim council was to make recommendations to the Minister on the constitution of a new social work council, within a period not exceeding three years. Those recommendations have now been made.

The main object of the Bill is, in pursuance of these recommendations, to make provision for the establishment and constitution of the contemplated new council which shall be known as the South African Council for Social Service Professions (the "Council"). Certain essential consequential amendments are effected. The interim council will continue to exist until the day which precedes the day on which the first meeting of the Council takes place, and will until that day continue to perform the functions entrusted to the interim council.

Furthermore the Bill aims to provide for the establishment, constitution and objects of professional boards for social service professions.

Main features

Clause 1 of the Bill provides for the amendment, deletion and insertion of certain definitions.

Clauses 2 and 3 deal with the establishment of the Council for Social Service Professions.

Clause 4 sets out the objects of the Council.

Clause 6 deals with the constitution of the Council through election and appointment. Provision is made for persons who are not social service professionals to be members of the Council.

Clause 9 provides for the establishment of professional boards in respect of all professions under this Act to deal with matters pertaining to these professions, their objects and their powers.

Clause 15 deals with the registration of persons in respect of whom professional boards have been established and provides for the application, qualifications and conditions to be prescribed by regulation.

Clause 21 enables the Council to make rules for its internal organisation with the approval of the Minister.

Clause 22 inter alia empowers the Minister to make regulations relating to the constitution, functions and functioning of a professional board.

Clause 23 abolishes the South African Interim Council for Social Work and also makes provision for the transfer of its assets and liabilities to the Council.

As a result of the above-mentioned amendments, there are various consequential amendments that are being dealt with in the unmentioned clauses.
