1. INTRODUCTION

Postbank is a financial services division of the Post Offices around the world. Their main aim is to give mostly isolated communities access to vital financial and related services and thereby contribute greatly to the economic and social development.

The South African Post Office (SAPO) has been offering financial services ever since its incorporation when firstly money order service and postal orders were introduced. Postbank was established by Post Office Act, 1958 (Act No. 44 of 1958) as division of the Post Office and under the control and management of the Post Office. The Postbank was used as a deposit taking and saving institution since its incorporation. As a financial services division, the Postbank has become extremely important in the realization of integrated services delivery to the people of South Africa. Many financial transactions are done through the post office systems to ensure that ordinary people participate within the economic activities, irrespective of their physical location or financial background. Many organizations including Government utilize the services of the Post Office and in particular the Postbank to ensure access to their services.

2. POLICY GUIDELINE IMPLEMENTATION

Corporitisation of the Postbank has been envisaged in terms of the White Paper on Postal Policy (1996) as a subsidiary of the South African Post Office in the short term and a stand-alone company in the long term extending to lending facilities. In 2005, Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) was entered into between Ministers of Communications and Finance on the governing principles and the process to be followed in the restructuring and corporatisation of Postbank. The MOU included the milestones to be undertaken until the process is finalized in line with the 1996 Postal Policy.

3. CURRENT REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

The Postbank is currently regulated in terms of the Postal Services Act, 1998 (Act No. 124 of 1998) as amended and is exempted from the application of the Banks Act. The Postal Services Act does, however, not provide for any obligation on the Postbank, except for that section which allows for the provision of such financial services. The Postbank is also managed and controlled by the Post Office board and management.

As a financial services provider, the Postbank, like any other financial institution is exposed to the possibility of financial crimes such as money laundering and related activities. There are certain requirements in terms of the financial services laws that need to be complied with when providing financial services. The Postbank because of its nature and its current regulatory framework is exempted to comply with those requirements, which can expose it to the possibility of financial crimes being committed.

Corporatisation of the Postbank is also maimed at ensuring compliance with regulations and laws to ensure proper management of the bank as a financial service institution and continue to be the key player in ensuring access to the financial services, particularly to the underserved population.

The process of corporatising the Postbank can only be finalised once a regulatory framework has been put in place. Task team consisting of SAPO, Department of Communications and National Treasury was established to work on the corporatization process.

The Department of Communications is tasked with developing and or identifying enabling legislation to govern the corporatization of the Postbank. The Draft South African Postbank Bill has been developed to facilitate the process. The National Treasury as one of the key stakeholders is already working on other prudential requirements for the corporatisation process.

The objective of the Bill is to implement the Postal policy and the MOU of making the Postbank a subsidiary of SAPO and its vision as the corporatised Postbank.

4. SUMMARY OF THE DRAFT POSTBANK BILL

The South African Postbank Bill can be summarized as follows:

4.1 OBJECTIVES

The objectives of the Bill is to implement the vision of the White Paper on Postal Policy, 1996 and the MOU entered into by the Ministers of Communications and Finance in respect of the corporatisation the Postbank into a subsidiary legal entity owned by SAPO on behalf of Government. It is also aimed at providing for the regulation and supervision of the business of the Postbank in the public interest and for that purpose to:

- create a Bank of first choice for the underserved communities providing them with appropriate banking products and high quality essential financial services through the Post Office network in order to advance household savings and encourage the culture of saving;
- establish a financial institution for the mass mobilisation of savings and investment funds by making payment and savings services available through the Post Office network and other outlets, and to utilise such funds through investment at the lowest possible risk and at an acceptable profit margin;

- extend lending facilities subject to approval of the South African Reserve Bank, in consultation with the shareholder.

5. CONCLUSION

The Department believes that a comprehensive administrative and regulatory framework to ensure the corporatization of the Postbank as an independent public entity will establish an effective and co-operative process to remedy the failures and to comply with the financial regulatory systems in the country. The aim is also to ensure access to the much needed financial services by communities, especially for the rural communities and low income earners.

The Department would therefore appreciate receiving all suggestions for improvements to the current proposal in order to develop a sound solution to the corporatization of the Postbank.
