AGRICULTURAL LAND ACT REPEAL BILL, 1997

PART I

OBJECTS AND EXPLANATION

The original aim of the Subdivision of Agricultural Land Act, 1970 (Act No. 70 of 1970), was to prevent the subdivision of agricultural land to extent where the new portions created are so small that farming will no longer be economically viable.

As a legislative measure to determine and maintain farm size Act 70 of 1970 is no longer deemed appropriate. It is no longer necessary to control the subdivision of agricultural land or for Government to determine what constitutes an appropriate land size. Land users and the market should be determinant of the land size. Appropriate zoning measures are considered sufficient for the protection of high potential agricultural land.

Alternative land protection measures are also possible under the Conservation of Agricultural Resources Act, 1983 (Act No.43 of 1983). The Development Facilitation Act, 1995 (Act No. 67 of 1995), and local government legislation.

It was therefore deemed necessary to repeal Act 70 of 1970.
