MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE NATIONAL PROSECUTING AUTHORITY BILL, 1997

1. The Bill emanates from the provisions of section 179 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996 (Act No. 108 of 1996) (the "Constitution"). Section 179 amongst others, provides for—

- * the establishment of a single national prosecuting authority in the Republic in terms of an Act of Parliament;
- * the appointment of a National Director of Public Prosecutions as head of the national prosecuting authority; and
- * the appointment of Directors of Public Prosecutions and prosecutors as determined by an Act of Parliament.

2. In respect of the appointment, powers and duties of the Directors, the Constitution further provides that—

- (a) national legislation must ensure that the Directors of Public Prosecutors are appropriately qualified;
- (b) the Directors are responsible for prosecutions in specific jurisdictions;
- (c) the prosecuting authority exercises its functions without fear, favour or prejudice; and
- (d) all matters concerning the prosecuting authority must be determined by national legislation.

3. The objects of the Bill are therefore to establish a single national prosecuting authority and to give effect to the abovementioned constitutional requirements. The Bill will also address the provisions with regard to the prosecutors' remuneration, the legitimacy of the prosecuting authority and uniformity in respect of prosecutions.

4. The main provisions of the Bill are the following:

4.1 In terms of clause 3 the National Prosecuting Authority shall consist of the National Director; Directors of Public Prosecutions ("Directors"); the Director: Office for Serious Economic Offences; Deputy Directors; and prosecutors.

4.2. An important aspect of the Bill is to ensure that the national prosecuting authority exercises its functions independently without interference from the executive and other sectors but subject only to the Constitution and the law. This principle is enshrined in clause 5. In the first instance clause 5(1)(a) provides that a member of the national prosecution authority shall serve impartially and exercise, carry out or perform his or her powers, duties and functions in good faith and without fear, favour or prejudice and subject only to the Constitution and the law. Clause 5(1)(b) prohibits any person to interfere with, hinder or obstruct the national prosecuting authority or any member thereof in the exercise, carrying out or performance of its, his or her powers, duties and functions relating to the institution and conducting of prosecutions. A contravention of this provision is an offence in terms of clause 28.

4.3 Chapter 3 of the Bill deals with the structure of the national prosecuting authority. In this regard the following provisions are important:

(a) In clause 6(2)(L), (c) and (d) provision is made for the appointment of two or three Directors, one or more Deputy Directors and prosecutors at the Office of the National Director. In terms of these provisions it will be possible to appoint experienced personnel in the Office of the National Director with a view to assist him or her.

(b) In terms of clause 7 an Office for the prosecuting authority is established at each of the provincial divisions of the High Court and the Witwatersrand Local Division of the High Court. The President may also by proclamation in the Gazette and in consultation with the Minister establish an Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions at any other local division of the High Court and may determine the name of the Office.

4.4 Chapter 4 deals with qualifications, term of office and the powers, duties and functions of the National Director. In terms of clause 8 the National Director must be an appropriately qualified, fit and proper person. Furthermore the following provisions are important:

(a) Clause 9(1) provides that the National Director shall hold office for a fixed term, determined by the President but not exceeding seven years. The National Director may be reappointed, if eligible, for one additional term, but must vacate his or her office at the age of 65 years. Clause 9(5) to (8) regulates the suspension and removal from office of the National Director.

(b) Clauses 10 and 11 provide for the powers, duties and functions of the National Director. It is important to note that the National Director may personally bring proceedings, which may include the institution of criminal proceedings, in a competent court in the name of the State (clause 10(1)(b)). This will include the power to appear in the Constitutional Court representing the interests of the prosecuting authority. Functions relating to his or her powers emanating from the Constitution, relating to the prosecuting authority as a whole, the interests of Directors and prosecutors, the training of prosecutors, the submission of reports, etc, are also included in this clause. In terms of clause 11 the National Director also has the power to hold inquiries in respect of certain offences or category of offences and to direct that the investigation and prosecution in respect of certain offences be transferred from one area of jurisdiction to another area of jurisdiction.

4.5 Chapter 5 of the Bill deals with matters relating to the Directors. The most important provisions in this regard are the following:

- (a) Clause 12 provides for the appointment of four different classes of Directors, namely Directors to be appointed—
 - (i) in the Office of the National Director (clause 12(1)(a));
 - (ii) in respect of each provincial division of the High Court and the Witwatersrand Local Division of the High Court (clause 12(1)(b));
 - (iii) in respect of any other local division of the High Court if necessary; and
 - (iv) to perform certain specific functions (clause 12(1)(d)).
- (b) The qualifications for Directors are set out in clause 12(2).
- (c) The provisions regarding the term of office, suspension and removal from office of a Director are similar to that of the National Director except that Parliament is not involved (clause 13).
- (d) Clause 14 provides for the appointment of Deputy Directors by the Minister.
- (e) Clause 15 provides for the powers, duties and functions of Directors and Deputy Directors. In this regard clause 15(2)(c) and (5) specifically make provision for interaction between the Directors and the Provincial Commissioners of the police service.

4.6 Chapter 6 deals with the delegation of authority to prosecutors by the Director. Prosecutors in the High Court will receive their delegations to prosecute under clause 16(1)(a), whereas prosecutors in the lower courts will receive their delegation under clause 16(1)(6). Delegations shall only be made in respect of persons who are appropriately qualified to be appointed as prosecutors (clause 16(2)). Where a prosecutor is not available, an unqualified person may be delegated for the purpose of postponing the cases. Clause 17 makes provision for the powers, duties and functions of prosecutors.

4.7 Chapter 7 deals with the remuneration and other conditions of service of members of the prosecuting authority. In this regard a clear distinction is drawn between the position of the National Director and Director on the one hand and the Deputy Directors and prosecutors on the other. The remuneration and other conditions of service of the National Director and the Director shall be determined by the President (clause 18), whereas the conditions of service of the Deputy Directors and prosecutors (except remuneration) shall be determined by the provisions of the Public Service Act (clause 20). In clause 19 provision is made that, in respect of the remuneration of Deputy Directors and prosecutors, the Minister of Justice shall, with the concurrence of the Minister of Finance, determine salary scales for prosecutors from time to time by notice in the Gazette.

4.8 Chapter 8 deals with general provisions such as—

- (a) the National Director's responsibility towards the Minister of Justice and the Minister's duties and functions (clause 21);
- (b) the submission of annual reports by the National Director and the Directors (clause 22(1)(a) and (b));

- (c) the expenditure of the prosecuting authority and accounting responsibility in respect of the national prosecuting authority (clause 23);
- (d) the appointment of administrative staff to the various offices of the national prosecuting authority (clause 24);
- (e) the making of regulations by the Minister (clause 27); and
- (f) transitional arrangements regarding the persons currently holding office as attorney-general or acting attorney-general (clause 29).

5. A draft Bill was circulated for comment to various stakeholders, for example, the judiciary, prosecutors associations, attorneys-general, regional offices of the Department of Justice, senior public prosecutors, State Attorneys, the Association of Law Societies, the General Council of the Bar, Nadel, BLA, the Director of OSEO, Chief Magistrates, magistrates and Justice College.

In the opinion of the Department of Justice and the State Law Advisers this Bill should be dealt with in terms of section 75 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996.
