The proposed amendment to section 17B introduces an offence for the misuse of electronic communications.

It is proposed in the Revenue Laws Amendment Act, 2007, that short-term insurers will be allowed to deduct liabilities contemplated in section 32(1)(a), (b) and (d) of the Short-Term Insurance Act, 1998. This deduction is subject to adjustment by the Commissioner of SARS. The proposed amendment will subject any such adjustment to objection and appeal by the insurer.

Subclause (1)(a): The definition of “person” is proposed to be amended to accord with the definition in the Income Tax Act, 1962.

This will come into operation on a date fixed by the President by proclamation in the Gazette.

2.5 Amendment of section 4 of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

This will come into operation on a date to be fixed by the President by proclamation in the Gazette.

2.9 Amendment of section 46 of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

Such a declaration is required in terms of the proposed amendment where the goods are imported from a country or countries other than the country or countries or a supplier in respect of which such a payment, duty or restriction is prescribed. This amendment is necessary for the control of imports in respect of which such duties or restrictions are prescribed.

The Commissioner is enabled to make rules prescribing forms and other matters for the purposes of the subsection.

2.10 Amendment of section 46A of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

Section 46A relates to non-reciprocal preferential tariff treatment of goods exported from the Republic. The proposed amendments to the definitions to include a supplier of goods, who may be a producer or manufacturer of goods produced or manufactured for export. The provision is inserted for the purpose of making provision in certain rules for a supplier and a supplier's declaration where it is required as proof of the originating status of the goods.

2.11 Amendment of section 47 of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

The present provisions regarding determination disputes only relate to the appeal procedure in Part A of Chapter XA, but the procedures in Part B and Part C may also apply. The amendments to section 47(9) are accordingly proposed so as to include a reference to any procedure contemplated in Chapter XA.

2.12 Amendment of section 49 of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

This amendment proposes a textual amendment to a provision in section 49 relating to international agreements concerning customs co-operation, the exchange of information and the rendering of mutual and technical assistance in respect of customs co-operation.

2.13 Amendment of section 52 of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

Section 77G is amended as a decision may be appealed against and may also be dealt with in terms of any other procedure to which Chapter XA relates.

2.17 Insertion of Chapter XB into Customs and Excise Act, 1964

These proposals are intended to provide legal certainty and address the confusion relating to conflicting provisions in the Counterfeit Goods Act and Customs and Excise Act.

SARS will act as a filter for all counterfeit goods while such goods are under customs control. Customs officers will be responsible for the detention and control of possible counterfeit goods. Once this detention has interrupted the movement of the goods, the intellectual property right holder will be required to apply to court for an order declaring the detained goods to be counterfeit goods.

The proposals are in line with the World Customs Organisation's (WCO) model provisions for national legislation to implement effective border measures by Customs authorities, consistent with the TRIPS agreement. The proposed amendment is further in line with the provisions of section 113(8) of the Customs and Excise Act, 1964, where goods suspected of being imported in contravention with any other law in South Africa are detained and then handed over to another authority for further action. In the proposed legislation, the goods are handed over for safe-keeping to the Counterfeit Goods Depot Operator as contemplated in the Counterfeit Goods Act, 1997, and further steps must be taken by the holder of the intellectual property right to ensure that the goods are not subsequently released into home consumption.

2.18 Amendment of section 80 of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

The proposed amendment inserts a reference to sections 35A(2), (3) and (4) and 54(2), (3) and (4) in section 80(1)(o) which provides for serious offences and their punishment. Section 35A relates to special provisions regarding cigarettes and cigarette tobacco manufactured in the Republic. The effect of the provision is that provision is now made for serious offences under the same section in respect of both imported and locally-produced cigarettes, which is considered necessary for the purposes of law enforcement.

2.19 Amendment of section 95 of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

The commercial cargo clearing facility at the proposed Lebombo-Ressano Garcia one stop border will be situated within the territory of Mozambique. The amendment of section 95(1A) by inclusion of a reference to section 50A will deem an offence committed at the commercial cargo facility as having been committed at any place in the Republic where the accused happened to be.

2.20 Amendment of section 111 of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

Section 111 is amended to clarify that where a vehicle manufactured in South Africa is re-imported after exportation also requires a certificate issued by an officer as contemplated in subsection (1) as it must be verified whether the duty and VAT due have been paid.

2.21 Repeal of section 113A of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

Section 113A is repealed as a consequence of the insertion of the counterfeit goods legislation in Chapter XB. This shall come into operation on a date fixed by the President by proclamation in the Gazette.

2.22 Amendment of section 114A of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

Section 114A is amended to achieve uniformity with sections 105 and 114. 2.23 Amendment of section 114B of Customs and Excise Act, 1964

Section 114B is amended to achieve uniformity with sections 105, 114 and 114A. In the past, fines were collected by the Department of Justice and paid over to the Controller, but this practice is no longer followed and the reference to “fine” is therefore deleted as fines are not recovered under the provisions of the Customs and Excise Act, 1964.

Section 120 is amended to add section 49 as customs union agreements and other international agreements which require to be administered under customs legislation are now provided for under that section. This amendment will come into operation on the date of promulgation of this Act.

2.25 Amendment of section 1 of Stamp Duties Act, 1968

Subclause (a): The proposed amendment seeks to delete all provisions relating to marketable securities as those provisions will be catered for in the Securities Transfer Tax Act, which will come into effect on 1 July 2008.

Subclause (b): The proposed amendment seeks to insert a definition of “Republic” into the Stamp Duties Act. It is necessary to define the Republic as there are references to “Republic” in the Stamp Duties Act.

Subclause (a): The amendment is consequential upon the amendment to the definition of “foreign donor funded project” in section 1 of the VAT Act.

Subclauses (a) to (c): A vendor is entitled to certain deductions in terms of section 16(3) of the VAT Act which are not subject to the documentary requirements contemplated in section 16(2) of the VAT Act. The proposed amendment is to provide the Commissioner with discretionary powers in order to prescribe acceptable documentary proof that a vendor must be in possession of before making such deductions. This amendment will not affect deductions of “input tax” as section 16(2) set outs the documentary requirements.

Subclause (d): The proposed deletion of the proviso in section 16(2) of the VAT Act is to eliminate the duplication of the proviso which is provided for in section 16(3) of the VAT Act.

Subclause (e): Where goods or services were supplied to a vendor during a tax period and the vendor was not in possession of e.g. a tax invoice, the vendor is not entitled to claim the input tax during that tax period. If the tax invoice is obtained in a subsequent tax period, the vendor can claim input tax in terms of section 16(3)(g). The proposed amendment to section 16(3)(g) is intended to allow a vendor to claim input tax or a deduction where the documentary requirements of section 16(2) are subsequently met.

In the event that such day falls on a Saturday, Sunday or public holiday (i.e. not a business day), the return and/or the payment must be received on the last business day before that date.

2.33 Amendment of section 31 of Value-Added Tax Act, 1991

The result of the proposed amendment is that a vendor is required to keep the documents prescribed by the Commissioner in terms of section 16(2)(f) of the VAT Act, for the prescribed period.
