MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE SOUTH AFRICAN JUDICIAL EDUCATION INSTITUTE BILL

1. BACKGROUND TO AND OBJECTS OF BILL

- 1.1 Section 180(a) of the Constitution provides that national legislation may provide for training programmes for judicial officers. During September 2003 a committee set up some years before by a previous Minister of Justice under the auspices of the Canada-South Africa Linkage Project reported on current judicial education trends elsewhere in the world and made a number of recommendations for the development of judicial education in South Africa. Although the committee itself was broadly based and represented a spectrum of differing opinions and skills, it consulted an extremely wide array of persons, bodies and groups with an interest in or knowledge of judicial education, both in South Africa and abroad. The committee collated the responses, studied the theoretical basis and actual delivery of judicial education in many democratic societies and analysed the relationship between the education and the independence of judges. The conclusion was that the education and training of judicial officers in South Africa required urgent and fundamental adaptation.

The said committee's proposal that Justice College be converted into an independent statutory institution for this purpose was not implemented at that stage, but the predecessor of the current Bill, namely, the South African National Justice Training College Bill ("SANJTAC Bill") was drafted and discussed at a major Colloquium during April 2005, together with a package of other Bills affecting the judiciary. When the SANJTAC Bill proved not to be acceptable to the judiciary, the matters raised therein were referred for further consultation. The Advisory Committee on Judicial Education then put the matter on its agenda. This Advisory Committee was established by the Chief Justice to advise on judicial education. On it are represented judges, magistrates, the Judicial Service Commission, the Magistrates' Commission, the Justice Ministry, the Director-General: Justice and Constitutional Development, the General Council of the Bar of South Africa, the Law Society of South Africa, the National Prosecuting Authority, magistrates' organisations (JOASA, ARMSA and LCMC), the Justice College and the Society of Law Deans of South Africa. After several meetings of this Advisory Committee a draft Bill was decided upon and sent to the Minister for consideration. This draft Bill was subsequently adapted during the consultation process into the current Bill. It appears that all the role players are now satisfied with the Bill in its current form.

- 1.2 It is now being proposed that the South African Judicial Education Institute ("the Institute") be established as a juristic person with jurisdiction for the judicial education and training of judicial officers and aspiring judicial officers. The governance of the Institute will vest in the Council of the Institute which will consist of representatives of all interested parties and role players, as well as two persons from the public not involved in the administration of justice. The objects of the Bill can be summarised as follows: To establish the Institute as a juristic person in order—
- (a) to provide proper, appropriate and transformational judicial education and training, having due regard to both our inherited legacy and our new constitutional dispensation; and
  - (b) to offer judicial education and training to aspiring and newly appointed judicial officers as well as continued training for experienced judicial officers.

1.3 The Bill contains the following:

- (a) A long title: a short description of the purpose and contents of the Bill.
- (b) A preamble: setting out, inter alia, the value of, and need for, education and training in general and for members of the judiciary in particular, in promoting the independence, impartiality, dignity, accessibility and effectiveness of the courts.
- (c) Clause 1: definitions.
- (d) Clause 2: the objects of the Bill with special reference to the transformation of the judiciary and judicial accountability, in order to promote the values mentioned in section 1 of the Constitution.
- (e) Clause 3: the establishment of the Institute.
- (f) Clause 4: the seat of the Institute.
- (g) Clause 5: the functions of the Institute. Extensive powers are conferred on the Institute in order to empower it to realise the objects of the Bill. The Institute must further appoint a Director to head the Institute, a Registrar to head the administration of the Institute and an Operations Officer who must prepare and provide quarterly management reports to the Director-General.
- (h) Clause 6: the establishment of the Council of the Institute responsible for its governance.
- (i) Clause 7: the composition of the Council of the Institute. All interested parties are to be represented and due consideration must be given to demographic and gender representivity.
- (j) Clause 8: the meetings of the Council and proceedings thereat.
- (k) Clause 9: committees of the Council.
- (l) Clause 10: the powers and duties of the Council.
- (m) Clause 11: the administration of the Institute.
- (n) Clause 12: the appointment of the Director of the Institute.
- (o) Clause 13: the finances and accountability. Expenditure in connection with the administration and functioning of the Institute must be defrayed from monies appropriated by Parliament for this purpose to the Departmental vote. Such monies will constitute earmarked funds on the Departmental vote and may not be used by the Department for any other purpose, without approval of the National Treasury. The Institute may also receive donations and contributions from other sources approved by the Council in accordance with National Treasury regulations. The Director-General will, subject to the Public Finance Management Act, 1999, be responsible for accounting for monies received or paid out on account of the Institute, and must cause the necessary accounting and other related records to be kept, which must be audited by the Auditor-General. The usual financial statements must be prepared within six months of the end of each financial year, which must likewise be audited.
- (p) Clause 14: remuneration of the staff of the Institute. The Council may, with the concurrence of the Minister and after consultation with the Minister of Finance, determine the remuneration, allowances, benefits, and other terms and conditions of appointment of each member of staff.

- (q) Clause 15: annual report. Within six months of the end of each financial year, the Council must prepare and submit to the Minister an annual report in the form prescribed by the Minister. The audited financial statements, the auditor's report, a report of the activities undertaken and a statement of progress achieved during the preceding year towards the realisation of the objects of the Bill must accompany the report. The Minister must table in the National Assembly each annual report received.
- (r) Clause 16: guidelines. The Chief Justice may issue guidelines, with the concurrence of the Minister, in respect of any matter concerning the exercise of any power and the performance of any function of the Institute.
- (s) Clause 17: reimbursement of members of the Council. Members of the Council may be reimbursed for their expenses incurred in their service as members, but not remunerated. The two members of the public may be remunerated for their service.
- (t) Clause 18: seal of the Institute. The seal of the Institute must be determined by the Council with the concurrence of the Minister. The President must approve the seal and it must be published in the Gazette.
- (u) Clause 19: transitional provisions. The Institute must commence with its training functions as from a date fixed by the Minister by notice in the Gazette. Before the date so fixed, the necessary arrangements must be made for the Institute to be accommodated, equipped and staffed in order to perform its functions properly.
- (v) Clause 20: short title and commencement.

2. DEPARTMENTS/BODIES/PERSONS CONSULTED

An exposition of the consultation process is given in paragraph 1.1.

3. IMPLICATIONS FOR PROVINCES

None.

4. ORGANISATIONAL AND PERSONNEL IMPLICATIONS

The Bill will have organisational and personnel implications similar to those required in the establishment of a university. The proposed new institution will need lecturing as well as administrative and supporting staff, including a Director, a Registrar and an Operations Officer. The necessary arrangements will have to be made for the proposed Institute to be accommodated, equipped and staffed in order to perform its functions properly.

5. FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS FOR STATE

There will be financial implications for the State which are not quantifiable at the moment. They will, however, be catered for by means of the annual budget vote of the Department.

6. COMMUNICATIONS IMPLICATIONS

Appropriate communication measures may be implemented by GCIS.

7. PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

- 7.1 The State Law Advisers and the Department of Justice and Constitutional Development are of the view that this Bill must be dealt with in accordance with the procedure established by section 75 of the Constitution, since it contains no provisions to which the procedure set out in section 74 or 76 of the Constitution applies.
- 7.2 The State Law Advisers are of the opinion that it is not necessary to refer this Bill to the National House of Traditional Leaders in terms of section 18(1)(a) of the Traditional Leadership and Governance Framework Act, 2003 (Act No. 41 of 2003), since it does not contain provisions pertaining to customary law or customs of traditional communities.
