Short title and commencement

27. This Act is called the iKamva National e-Skills Institute Act, 2017, and comes into operation on a date determined by the President by proclamation in the Gazette.

ce061015

MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE IKAMVA NATIONAL ESILLS INSTITUTE BILL, 20171. BACKGROUND

1.1 The South African government recognises that e-skilling the nation is fundamental to addressing all the major issues it faces and in better positioning itself to be part of the Information Society and Creative Knowledge Economies, commonly named the Knowledge Society. There is widespread acceptance that e-skills (the capacity to use modern ICT devices and applications for work, education, community and personal needs), affect the capacity of a country to address every substantive issue of inequity communities face. This includes a widespread high-level of e-social astuteness capacity which will enable all levels of civil society to appropriate modern ICT applications into sustainable local benefit.

1.2 The 2013 World Economic Forum (WEF), Global IT Report 2014 on e-Readiness, indicates that South Africa dropped in ranking from 47th place in 2007 to 70th position in 2014. Out of 10 components of e-Readiness, the WEF IT Report identified that South Africa lacks in affordability, skills, individual usage, government usage and social impacts when compared to its global counterparts in the medium income group.

1.3 The lack of coordination and collaboration within and across government departments and state-owned companies in developing and delivering a programme of capacity building has an impact on increased e-skills shortage that hinders investment, socio-economic development and capacity development in the country. This affects the country's capacity in accelerating e-skills capacity development in underserved areas in order to make South Africa e-literate by 2030 in line with the National Development Plan.

1.4 National Electronic Media Institute of South Africa (Nemisa) came into being as an institution of education and learning specialising in teaching the production and technical skills applicable on television, and broadcasting industries. This was formed as part of a government initiative in 1998 to train previously disadvantaged individuals, particularly women, to equip them with skills relevant to the significant roles in the broadcasting environment.

1.5 The e-Skills Institute is a branch within the Department which was established to intervene on e-Skills shortage and harness the potential of ICT across the whole country in order to address the major economic challenges by providing strategic direction for advancement of e-Skills to the graduates and society in order to function effectively within the emerging information society, amongst other things.

1.6 In October 2012, the Department of Communications ("Department") adopted the establishment of iNeSI as a flagship project in an effort to address the e-skill human capacity challenge and e-readiness of the country in collaboration with government, business, education and civil society.

1.7 The iNeSI is an integration of three ICT skills development related entities, namely, the National Electronic Media Institute of South Africa (NEMISA); the e-Skills Institute (e-SI) and the Institute for Space and Software Applications (ISSA) which was officially launched by the Department on 21 February 2014.

2. WHAT THE BILL SEEKS TO ACHIEVE

The main purpose of the Bill is to provide for the establishment of the iNeSI, to provide for the promotion of the use of information, communication and technology, to provide for the objects and functions of the iNeSI and to provide for the establishment of the ICT knowledge production hub.

3. CLAUSE-BY-CLAUSE ANALYSIS

5. FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS FOR STATE

The RIA (Regulatory Impact Analysis) has to be undertaken for a comprehensive implementation plan.

6. CONSTITUTIONAL IMPLICATIONS

The Department is of the opinion that the provisions of the Bill are not unconstitutional.

7. PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

7.1 The Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996, regulates the manner in which legislation may be enacted by Parliament. It prescribes different procedures for different kinds of Bills.

7.2 Section 75 of the Constitution sets out a procedure to be followed when National Assembly passes a Bill other than a Bill to which the procedure sets out in section 74 or 76 of the Constitution applies.¹

7.3. Section 76 of the Constitution on the other hand provides for a procedure that must be followed for all the Bills referred to in this section under subsections (3), (4) and (5).²

7.4. In Tongoane v Minister of Agriculture and others CCT 100/09 [2010] ZACC 10, the Constitutional Court confirmed and upheld the test for tagging that was formulated in Ex Parte President of the Republic of South Africa: In re Constitutionality of the Liquor Bill [1999] ZACC 15;2000 (1) SA 732 (CC); 2000 (1) BCLR 1 (CC), where the Constitutional Court held that –

² See section 76 (1) of the Constitution.

“the heading of section 76, namely, ‘Ordinary Bills affecting provinces’ provides a strong textual indication that section 76(3) must be understood as requiring that any Bill whose provisions in substantial measure fall within a functional area listed in Schedule 4, be dealt with under section 76.”

7.5. At paragraph 58 the Constitutional Court held that “What matters for the purposes of tagging is not the substance or the true purpose and effect of the Bill, rather, what matters is whether the provisions of the Bill “in substantial measure fall within a functional area listed in schedule 4”.

7.6. At paragraph 72 the Constitutional Court stated that any Bill whose provisions substantially affect the interest of the provinces must be enacted in accordance with the procedure stipulated in section 76. This also includes Bills providing for legislation envisaged in the further provisions set out in section 76(3) (a) to (f), as well as Bills the main substance of which falls within the exclusive national competence, but the provisions of which nevertheless substantially affect the provinces. What must be stressed, however, is that the procedure envisaged in section 75 of the Constitution remains relevant to all Bills that do not in substantial measure affect the provinces.

7.7. We have carefully considered the Bill and the State Law Advisers are of the view that the Bill can be distinguished from the Tongoane judgment, as the Bill does not deal with any of the matters listed in Schedule 4 (functional areas of concurrent national and provincial legislative competence) or Schedule 5 to the Constitution.

7.8. Since the Bill does not fall within a functional area listed in Schedule 4 or Schedule 5 to the Constitution, we are of the view that a procedure set out in section 76 of the Constitution cannot be applied and the Bill cannot be tagged as a section 76 Bill.

7.9 In the light of the above, we are of the opinion that the Bill is correctly tagged as a section 75 Bill.

7.10 The State Law Advisers are of the opinion that it is not necessary to refer this Bill to the National House of Traditional Leaders in terms of section 18(1)(a) of the Traditional Leadership and Governance Framework Act, 2003 (Act No. 41 of 2003), since it does not contain provisions pertaining to customary law or customs of traditional communities.
