- 1) An employer or employee who intends terminating a contract of employment shall give the other party at least one (1) week's written notice of termination of such contract, which notice shall be given before 12:00 on any working day and shall commence as from 08:00 on the following working day if such contract has been for up to six (6) months, continuous employment and two (2) weeks written notice if such contract has been for longer than six (6) months' continuous employment.
- 2) Instead of giving an employee notice in term of sub clause (1) an employer may pay the employee the remuneration that the employee would have received if the employee had worked during the notice period. If an employee gives notice of termination of employment, and the employer waives any part of the notice, the employer must pay the employee in terms of sub clause (1), unless the employer and employee agree otherwise.
- 3) In the event of an employee absconding during his notice period and where the employer has proven such, the employer shall be entitled to deduct payment for the days that the employee was required to but did not work during his notice period from any monies due to the employee in terms of the Holiday and Bonus Fund.
- 4) Nothing in this clause shall affect the right of an employer or employee to terminate a contract of employment without notice for any cause recognised by law.
- 5) A contract of employment may be terminated if an employee is absent from work without the employer's consent for a continuous period of five (5) working days, unless the employee's absence is due to circumstances beyond his control: Provided that the employer shall investigate the absence of the employee and apply fair procedures to determine if the termination is to be made effective.

 - d) in the case of loadshedding, employers and employees are to negotiate alternative working hours around loadshedding hours to catch up with the work lost due to loadshedding. Where agreement is not reached or the loadshedding hours are of such a nature that alternative work hours are not practical, the employee can be laid off for the day in question.
- 3) The employer shall not be liable to pay employee wages and benefits except as specified in clause (2)(c) above during the lay-off:
- a) where the lay-off period includes a public holiday, the employer will not be compelled to remunerate the employee for the public holiday; and
 - b) an employer may not apply the lay-off clause to avoid complying with the provisions of the Public Holidays Act (Act No 36 of 1994).
- 4) An employer may lay an employee off in terms of sub clause (1) above for a continuous period not exceeding thirty (30) working days and if at the end of such period the employer wishes to extend this continuous lay-off period beyond the above time period the employee

- i. inclement weather, or
- ii. loadshedding, or
- iii. civil and/or political unrest, where this unrest action prevents the normal work activities from continuing on a specific site.

- 6) Where it can be established that the employer has not complied with the provisions of this clause, the employer will be held liable to remunerate the employee for the period that the employee was laid off.

- 7) Where it can be established that the employer has used the lay-off clause contrary to clause 39 and simply used a lay-off as a disciplinary or incapacity measure without following the applicable disciplinary or incapacity procedures, the employer will be held liable to remunerate the employee for the period that the employee was laid off.

E. Joint and several liability Scenarios

Scenario One: Non-Compliance

Company X subcontracts work to Company Y without verifying its registration or compliance status.

The BIBC conducts an inspection and finds Company Y to be non-compliant. Company X is held liable for the subcontractor's contraventions and the costs and penalties.

Scenario Two: Best Practice system of due diligence

Company X verifies Company Y's registration or compliance status before awarding the contract. Company Y maintains compliance throughout the project. Upon inspection, documented proof demonstrates due diligence which protects Company X from liability.

If any allegation of non-compliance arises for the period of the contract Company X will be able to show that it has done everything reasonably possible and will not be held liable for Company Y's non-compliance.

F. Protect your compliance status

Adhering to this Code of Good Practice ensures compliance with Clause 7, mitigates risk, and fosters fair labour practices within the building industry. Employers are encouraged to implement stringent due diligence, maintain accurate records, and cooperate with BIBC inspections to uphold industry standards.

ANNEXURE 2: CODE OF GOOD PRACTICE: TEMPORARY LAY-OFFA. Purpose

This Code of Good Practice is intended to provide practical guidance to employers on how to apply the provisions of the Collective Agreement (CA) in respect of clause 40.

Provisions in the CA providing for the temporary lay-off of employees, recognises that there are circumstances outside of the employer's control that result in an unplanned work stoppage.

B. Interpretation

This Code needs to be read in conjunction with the CA.

C. WhatsApp as Written Notice

The availability of electronic means of communication makes it easier for employers to contact employees. In the Western Cape region, WhatsApp is the most common means of communication. While the CA prescribes that communication from the employer informing the employees of a work stoppage must be in writing, WhatsApp will also be acceptable as 'written communication'. The employer must however ensure that he follows up with a telephone call if he sees that a WhatsApp message is reflecting as unread by the employee.

The intent of this requirement is to ensure that employees receive adequate notice and that an employee is not disadvantaged because he does not have the data available to receive the WhatsApp communication.

D. Communication Timeline

In the new CA, the payment to employees who have already signed in for work when the work stoppage occurs, increases to three (3) hours. This amendment recognises the inconvenience to employees and the time and income lost.

E. Number of continuous lay-off days and number of events

The number of continuous days for a layoff has been increased from 20 to 30.

Where the reason for the layoff relates to a shortage of material or a shortage of work, the number of lay off days permitted in a benefit year is also increased to 40, with no limit on the number of layoff events. This recognises the unpredictability of the circumstances that give rise to work stoppages.

F. Payment for Lay-off

There are a number of scenarios that may occur when a lay-off is confirmed by the employer. To ensure fairness to both the employer and the employee, the payment arrangements for lay-offs are outlined below:

Scenario 1: Communications received, and the employee has not come to work

An employer can confirm that the employee has received the notice of layoff and as a result, the employee has not arrived for work.

Payment for Scenario 1: No wage, no benefit.

Scenario 2: Communications not received or not received timeously

An employee has not received the communications from the employer, or the employer has communicated too late and as a result, the employee has arrived for work. In this case, the employee must be paid.

Payment for Scenario 2: Three (3) hours short notice pay of wages only (no benefits).

Scenario 3: Employee on site/working when lay-off occurs

An employee who is on site or working and then put on a lay-off, will have been working for a specific number of hours.

Payment for Scenario 3: The employee must be paid wages and benefits for the hours worked as well as for the three (3) hours' short notice pay which also includes benefits.

- a) Where the total hours do not equate to a full day: The employer can negotiate with employees to make up the lost hours.

For example: If the lay-off is confirmed at 10h00 and the normal shift ends at 17h00, the employer needs to compensate the employee for the full day despite the total hours making up only five (5) hours. Where a normal working day is eight (8) hours, the employer can negotiate with the employee to make up for the three (3) hours lost.

- b) Where the total hours exceed a full day, the employer only needs to pay for the hours that are short.

For example: If the lay-off is confirmed at 16h00 and the normal shift ends at 17h00, the employer only needs to compensate the employee for the one (1) hour that is short.

G. Provisions as amended from time to time

In terms of the CA, an employer may temporarily lay off an employee under specific circumstances. The table below outlines the changes that were made to this provision since the previous CA.

Previous CA_Clause 40	New CA_Clause 40 (as amended)
1) An employer shall be entitled to lay off an employee on account of – a) inclement weather, or b) a shortage of materials, due to circumstances beyond the employer's control, or c) a temporary shortage of work, or d) loadshedding - where work cannot be performed without the use of electricity, or e) civil and/or political unrest, where this unrest action prevents the normal work activities from continuing on a specific site.	No change to clause 40(1).

2) In all instances where this clause is to be implemented, the following process is to be followed by the employer - a) written notice of the lay-off shall be given to the employee before completion of the normal working shift preceding the day on which the lay-off is to be implemented; b) the written notice must include the reason for the lay-off and the period of the lay-off; c) where it is not possible to comply with sub clause (a) above, the employer shall pay the employee the equivalent of two hours' wages for short notice of the lay-off; d) in the case of loadshedding, employers and employees are to negotiate alternative working hours around loadshedding hours to catch up with the work lost due to loadshedding. 4) An employer may lay an employee off in terms of sub clause (1) above for a continuous period not exceeding 20 (twenty) working days and if at the end of such period the employer wishes to extend the lay-off period for a further 10 (ten) working days the employee shall first be given the option of being retrenched in accordance with the procedure laid down in clause 41.	Change to clause 40(4): An employer may lay an employee off in terms of sub clause (1) above for a continuous period not exceeding thirty (30) working days and if at the end of such period the employer wishes to extend this continuous lay-off period beyond the above time period the employee shall first be given the option of being retrenched in accordance with the procedure in clause 41.
5) The number of lay-offs permitted in terms of sub clause (2) above is limited to 2 (two) per benefit year (1 November to 31 October). Thereafter the employer must apply for exemption in terms of Clause 57 to implement further lay-offs during this period.	Change to clause 40(5): The number of lay-off days permitted within a benefit year (1 November to 31 October), is limited to forty (40) days. 6) Where it can be established that the employer has not complied with the provisions of this clause, the employer will be held liable to remunerate the employee for the period that the employee was laid off.	No change to clause 40(6).
7) Where it can be established that the employer has used the lay-off clause contrary to clause 39 and simply used a lay-off as a disciplinary measure without following the applicable disciplinary or incapacity procedures, the employer will be held liable to remunerate the employee for the period that the employee was laid off.	No change to clause 40(7).

G. Consulting in Good Faith

This Code assumes the continuation of the good faith practice of consulting with employees and where appropriate, rotating lay-off schedules among employees.

ANNEXURE 3: CODE OF GOOD PRACTICE: EXPANDED PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAMME (EPWP)A. Purpose

This Code of Good Practice is intended to provide practical guidance to employers on how to apply the provisions of the Collective Agreement (CA) in respect of clause 57: Exemptions.

The CA requires that all employers who operate within the BIBC's registered scope are bound by the BIBC's Collective Agreement, unless they have been exempted from compliance in terms of clause 57 of the Collective Agreement.

The BIBC fully supports the South African Government's Expanded Public Works Programme (EPWP) which creates temporary employment opportunities to assist in alleviating the current rate of unemployment. Exemption applications based on the EPWP have however been misunderstood or intentionally abused by employers in the past.

This Code is also published as a Guideline, issued to provide clarity to the industry and replaces all previous BIBC guidelines/directives relating to EPWP exemption applications.

B. Interpretation

This Code needs to be read in conjunction with the CA.

C. Requirements for all exemption applications

1. Employers who wish to be exempted from certain or all of the provisions of the Collective Agreement may apply for exemption in compliance with the requirements contained in clause 57 of the Collective Agreement.
2. Clause 57(5) prescribes the following minimum requirements for a valid exemption application:
 - 2.1 the period for which exemption is required;
 - 2.2 the parts of the Collective Agreement from which exemption is required; and
 - 2.3 proof that the exemption has been discussed with the affected employees and EPWP workers or their representatives as well as their responses resulting from such consultation.
3. Clause 57(8)(i) further confirms that an exemption application will not be considered if the employees and EPWP workers and their representatives have not been properly consulted, and their views have not been fully recorded in an accompanying document.

4. All relevant factors will be considered when determining an exemption application which includes but is not limited to the factors listed in clause 57(8) of the Collective Agreement.
5. Each of those factors should therefore be dealt with specifically in an exemption application and the relevant supporting documents should be attached as proof.

D. Additional requirements for EPWP exemption applications

6. If an exemption application is based on the EPWP, an employer must also prove that the exemption application relates to genuine EPWP workers who will be working on a genuine EPWP project.
7. The requirements for the EPWP are set out in:
 - 7.1 The Code of Good Practice for Employment and Conditions of Work for Expanded Public Works Programmes² (the Code); and
 - 7.2 Ministerial Determination 4: Expanded Public Works Programmes³ (the Determination).
8. The Determination explains that EPWP workers are workers in "elementary occupations" involving "unskilled or semi-skilled" work. It further provides specific terms and conditions such as a minimum wage rate, hours of work, leave etc, that applies to EPWP workers only.
9. This means that employers may not reduce the wages and benefits of their existing workforce (including for instance permanent or temporary artisans, semi-skilled workers, general workers and labourers) to EPWP rates or appoint new skilled employees at EPWP rates. Those employees must be paid in compliance with Collective Agreement and the agreed annual BIBC wage schedule.

³ The 2012 EPWP Determination can be downloaded from:

10. The Determination also requires employers to give an EPWP worker a statement listing the name of the EPWP that they will be working on and the training that the worker will receive during the EPWP.
11. The Code provides that EPWP workers should be employed on a rotational basis from the local community with a focus on women, youth, and people with disabilities. The idea is to provide as many persons as possible with an opportunity to earn an income and gain work experience. It also deals with the selection process when appointing EPWP workers and provides a draft contract for employers to use as a template.
12. The infrastructure sector of the EPWP includes low-cost housing projects commonly referred to as Breaking New ground or “BNG” or “Low Cost” housing projects which are executed with funding that is made available by the National or Provincial Department of Human Settlements. This is not the same as a commercial contract with a local labour requirement; or a public tender for a construction project which has a prescribed percentage of local community participation in terms of the Preferential Procurement Policy Framework Act, 5 of 2000 and its associated regulations.
13. When applying for exemption on the basis of the EPWP, an employer must therefore (in addition to complying with clause 57 as set out above):
 - 13.1 explain why the project is a genuine EPWP project i.e. that it is for low-cost housing and funded by the National or Provincial Department of Human Settlements;
 - 13.2 attach the relevant underlying agreements relating to the EPWP project including an agreement that explains the funding mechanism for the project;or
 - attach a letter from local, provincial or national government confirming the project's EPWP status (which substantially complies with the example attached as “Annexure A” hereto);- 13.3 explain how many genuine EPWP job opportunities will be created during the project, for which periods those opportunities will be created, and in which elementary occupations;
- 13.4 attach the relevant supporting documents to show that the Determination and Code have substantially been complied with such as:
 - 13.4.1 the recruitment documents;
 - 13.4.2 the EPWP appointment letters confirming the EPWP project and the nature of the unskilled or semi-skilled work; and

13.4.3 a schedule listing the duration to the appointments, hours of work, wages and benefits; and

13.5 complete and submit BIBC registration applications in relation to the employer and all EPWP workers to whom the exemption application relates.

E. Conclusion

14. Please note that each application will be assessed on its own merits and with reference to the evidence that has been provided to the BIBC.
15. Please further note that exemption applications based on the EPWP may be refused or granted for a limited period of up to one year and will be subject to certain conditions including but not limited to:
 - 15.1 registration with the BIBC as an employer and in relation to all EPWP workers to whom the exemption application relates;
 - 15.2 providing the BIBC with monthly participation reports submitted to government departments; and
 - 15.3 allowing the BIBC's inspectorate unfettered access to the relevant sites to monitor and enforce compliance.
