REPUBLIC OF SOUTH AFRICA

Inspiring new ways

In support of the NDP, in his February 2015 State of the Nation Address President Jacob Zuma announced the Nine-Point Plan to ignite economic growth and create much-needed jobs. The Nine-Point Plan responds to the economy's slow growth and aims to, among other things, transform the economy and increase investments.

The Nine-Point Plan's objectives are to:

- address the structural challenges that have affected the performance of the domestic economy and its ability to respond to our developmental challenges
- create a growth-enhancing economic environment, create jobs, reduce inequality and catalyse transformation.
- develop partnerships with business and labour, with government delivering specific supporting interventions (e.g. Mokolo Project to unlock Waterberg opportunities, addressing energy challenges, social and procurement accords).
